

From Epicurious: Cucumber Salad

September 20, 2015 at 9:24 PM

From Wendy Nash

To Wendy Nash

rinse off salt, add sliced red onions. Dijon mustard.

Cucumber Salad

<http://www.epicurious.com/recipes/food/views/cucumber-salad-350881>

Forget fuss—the key to this recipe is leaving everything alone. Tossing cucumbers with salt and then letting them drain prevents their moisture from diluting the flavors of the finished dish. A long, unattended marination enhances the sweet-sour blend of sugar and white vinegar that makes this salad especially refreshing.

2 seedless cucumbers (1 1/2 to 1 3/4 pounds total)

skin on ok.
I peeled every other to make stripes

1 tablespoon sugar

1/4 cup distilled white vinegar

2 teaspoons grainy mustard

Bibb or Boston lettuce leaves

2 tablespoons mild extra-virgin olive oil

Equipment: an adjustable-blade slicer

Cut cucumbers into thin (1/16-inch) rounds with slicer. Toss with 2 teaspoons salt in a colander, then drain 30 minutes. Squeeze excess liquid from cucumbers.

Whisk together sugar, vinegar, and mustard in a large bowl, then stir in cucumbers. Marinate, chilled, at least 2 hours.

Drain cucumbers, reserving marinade, and mound on lettuce. Whisk oil into reserved marinade and drizzle over salad.

7.31.16
no need to add oil

Sent from my iPad