

Steamed Haricot Verts in a Lemon Thyme Vinaigrette

Diane Morrissey on Insta

Diane said she turns to green beans anytime she's making food for a crowd because they're easy, delicious and nearly impossible to mess up. Plus, they can be prepped the day before, they don't need to be piping hot to taste good and they look beautiful in a big bowl or platter.

When I am serving a lot of people with a buffet, this is always my 'fall-back' veggie. They are incredibly easy to make, can be made the day before and can be set out at room temperature making them a perfect do-ahead dish for a party .

Steamed Haricot verts in a Lemon Thyme Vinaigrette

Bring a large pot of salted water to a boil. Add the beans and boil for 3 minutes only! Drain and add to a cold water bath or simply run them under cold water to stop the cooking process. Make a lemon vinaigrette by combining one part extra-virgin olive oil with one part of fresh lemon juice. Season with salt, pepper and fresh thyme leaves. Shake well in a jar and pour as much as you want over the beans. Check for seasoning and garnish with lemon slices and lemon zest make bean & vin day before. Store Separately. Combine.

Set on a platter - serve at Room temp.

1/3 cup lemon juice
1/3 cup olive oil

* Can add nicoise or kalamata olives